GREEN RESTAURANT, GREEN CUISINE, GREEN FARMING

Executive Chef Annie Somerville of Greens Restaurant in Conversation with Jonah Raskin

WHAT: A delightful afternoon on Saturday, July 31 from 2 to 5 pm of eating, drinking and conversation with two popular authors benefitting the Sonoma County Book Festival.

WHERE: Mimi Luebbermann's Windrush Farm
2263 Chileno Valley Road, Petaluma, CA 94952

DETAILS: Executive Chef Annie Somerville of Greens Restaurant in San Francisco comes to Mimi Luebbermann's Windrush Farm in Petaluma to share secrets of her renowned restaurant. The event is a benefit for the annual Sonoma County Book Festival, September 25, 2010.

Somerville will be in conversation with Jonah Raskin, author of Field Days: A Year of Farming, Eating and Drinking Wine in California. Suggested donation is $50 for adults, free for children 12 and under. Wood-fired pizza and beverages will be served. The afternoon event offers live music, books for sale and signing, and fun conversation on a real working sheep farm.

Somerville has been the executive chef at Greens since 1985. She is the author of two delicious cookbooks: Field of Greens and Everyday Greens. Please join her to celebrate reaching 29 years at Greens. Tickets for "Green Restaurant, Green Cuisine, Green Farming" available at www.brownpapertickets.com/event/118595 or by contacting J.J. Wilson 707.795.9058, boxcar@sonic.net.
